

She saved the world for us. Now it's our turn to save her.

Save Kim Possible

© The Walt Disney Company

The Disney show Kim Possible, is in danger of ending... not because of low ratings or a desire on the part of the actors and animators to move on... no it's because of a Rule. A Rule that says that "no show may go beyond 65 episodes..." A Rule that must be broken!

The Walt Disney Company – and their CEO Michael Eisner – is in desperate need of change. Hundreds, indeed thousands, of fans young and old have joined together to keep Kim on the air before it's too late. But we need your help. We need to make a growing movement a landslide of support. Will YOU help us help Kim?

How, you may ask? Simple... Visit us online at kp.savedisneyshows.org. There you can find information on where to write letters and emails, petitions you can sign online, and a link where you can place a vote to keep Kim Possible going. You will also find a serious group of fans, willing to hear any ideas you may have to add to our efforts, and where you can keep up to date on our efforts. We need every fan who cares enough, and we need your help. There is power in numbers, and our numbers are growing... but we need everyone who loves Kim as much as we do – no matter your age – in our effort.

At Save Kim Possible, we're also working hard at saving and preserving other Disney programs – old and not so old. Were you a fan of Darkwing Duck? Gargoyles? Wondered what happened to these fine examples of story telling excellence? Why there are no new Lizzie McGuire's? Wondered what might happen to Lilo & Stich? They've been shelved or will be soon... perhaps never to be seen again. That's where Save Disney Shows, our main effort, is working hard to restore the classics – from Mickey Mouse in the 1930's to today's most popular series, so the new classics stay alive as well.

Join us in this effort... if not for yourself, or for your kids... do it for Kim!
